The silent issues around us – mental health, sexual and domestic violence, and religious diversity – are often the most challenging to address. How can communities respond effectively to those in their midst who are held back by trauma, depression and mental illness? How might you make a difference? In this 6-week, 6 session seminar, you will learn how to create a spiritual community of hope around people struggling with mental health. Coleman’s seminar helps leaders in churches, caregiver groups, and civic non-profit organizations prepare their members to identify and support those in their midst who face mental health challenges.

Take this seminar as part of the Certificate in Mental Health and Spirituality, or by itself to earn continuing education credits (CEs) as you learn to infuse spirituality into your clinical practice. Teachings are appropriate for healthcare professionals as well as the general public. Healthcare professionals will be able to incorporate the tools and practices offered in this program in ways beneficial to clients or patients.

TOPICS INCLUDE:
- Faith, family and freedom
- Behind the mask, identifying different normals
- Faith and spiritual development, transformational moments
- Faith and spiritual development, life-giving and life affirming mentorship
- Violence and suffering, accepting/offering help
- Healing by identifying the problem and walking together to the solution

LEARNING OBJECTIVES INCLUDE:
- Create a plan to advance the visibility and discussion of mental illness and trauma
- Assess means to connect mental health issues with their impact in local community context
- Use story and other more qualitative resources to extend their story and elicit the story of others for mourning, healing, and growth
- Apply new understanding how religious and spiritual diversity can be understood, addressed, and enriched during bouts with mental illness, periodic and/or chronic and how it intersects with other forms of diversity
- Design ways for clergy/spiritual directors and mental health professionals to better collaborate to foster wellness in their patients and congregants
- List and discuss different normals: Functional, material, social, identity, assumptive world, theological constructs, etc.
- Analyze self-image, invisibility, and pivotal experiences- discrete moments and/or continuous streams that transform
