SPIRITUALITY IN MENTAL HEALTH

REGISTER: appliedwisdominstitute.org/seminars
COST: $625
TIME: Tuesdays & Thursdays, 4:30 - 6:00 pm PST

In this 8-week, 16 session seminar, mental health and spiritual care providers can together explore the issues of correct diagnoses, and communications between the parties involved - doctors, patients, community members, mental health professionals and spiritual practitioners. Here you learn skills that guide assessment, treatment planning and intervention. Take this seminar as part of the Certificate in Mental Health and Spirituality, or by itself to earn continuing education units (CEUs) as you learn to connect spirituality to mental health.

TOPICS INCLUDE:
- The amazing breadth of religious and spiritual diversity
- Distinguishing between spiritual struggles and psychological conditions
- Spiritual and mental health intersections
- Collaborations between clergy and mental health professionals
- How to ask about spirituality, religion and mental health issues
- The role of family and community in the intersection of spirituality and mental health

LEARNING OBJECTIVES INCLUDE:
- Articulate how religious and spiritual beliefs and practices are important to psychological health and well-being.
- Learn how religious and spiritual diversity can be effectively addressed in mental health care, and how it intersects with other forms of diversity
- Apply a social-ecological map to a religious/mental health problem to identify resources within your community
- Identify religious/spiritual and mental health intersections and barriers to collaboration between psychologists and clergy
- Distinguish between spiritual struggles and psychological conditions
